PRESIDENT LAUDS PROTECTIVE LAW

TARIFF POLICY HELD A DEFENSE OF HOME INDUSTRY

COTTON MANUFACTURERS NEAR PROSPERITY TALK

Coolidge Gives Assurance of Increased Business in Speech to National Association—Reviews Problems of Cotton Industry.

Washington.—Assurance of increased business prosperity was voiced by President Coolidge in an address to the National Cotton Manufacturers' association.

In the present and prospective industrial situation Coolidge saw justification of the tariff, and he again pledged an administration of justice by the government in its relations with business. The policy of conserving to the American producer "the right of first opportunity in the home market," he said, "has resulted in a very fair approximation of democracy in industry."

He also promised full assistance by the national government in fighting the boll weevil and indorsed the suggestion for a treaty of co-operation among the cotton producing states.

The president reviewed at length the problems of the cotton manufacturing industry, noting even the return of short skirts and the consequent reduction in consumption of cloth. He added that he saw little prospect of stabilizing women's styles and remarked that their constant changing might make it difficult for manufacturers, but "no doubt relieves monotony and adds to the spice of life."

In discussing the government's relations with business, the president declared enforcement of the law was essential, but that it was necessary also for industry to exercise the same vigilance. He lauded industry for its recognition of its responsibility towards its employees.

The agencies of the government were placed at the disposal of industry by Coolidge, who mentioned specifically that the federal trade board "has been devised for the purpose of safeguarding your rights, protecting you from unfair trade practices and admonishing and correcting you if you are wrong."

Justifying the tariff, the president declared "the towering stature of our industrial structure as we see it today is the best, is indeed the complete vindication of this policy."

"There has been at some times and in some quarters a disposition to criticize the American policy of conserving first opportunity in our home market for our own producers," he said. "We can hardly expect that such a program would be popular with those who find themselves placed at a disadvantage in the greatest market of the world, which is the American market. But those who charge us with selfishness in thus giving first thought to home interests would do well to consider whether their own policies in this regard are more liberal than ours."

GOVERNMENT WILL PROBE FOREIGN DEBT FUNDING

Washington.—Further indication that the government is planning immediate steps to collect some of the outstanding $7,000,000,000 foreign debt is seen in the Treasury department announcement that Under-Secretary Gerard B. Winston, now secretary of the debt funding commission will sail for London and Paris. Disclaiming that any official significance attached to his trip, Winston said, however, he would confer with high British and French financial officials. He will return about the middle of May.

Despite the reticence of the treasury to discuss Winston's trip, little doubt prevails here that he is going, in effect, as an American debt envoy to hold some conferences with French statesmen over the $4,000,000,000 unpaid and unfunded war debt.

Bishop Raps Modern Sermons

Los Angeles.—The need of the church is for preachers who will put Christ into their sermons, declared Dr. Edwin Hughes, bishop of the Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church, to the Pacific Coast Theological conference. He said: "Ministers may sometimes mistake the effects of a cup of coffee for the power of the holy spirit, and it is possible for a highly emotionalized or comatose congregation to be deceived thereby. I feel that we are safe in saying that many of the sermons that pass for deep preaching are merely dense, maddly, stupid verbal whirlpools of confusion."

MAMMOTH FLEET IN SAN FRANCISCO

STRONGEST EVER GATHERED UNDER AMERICAN FLAG

ARMADA'S COMMANDER SAILED WITH EVANS

Admiral Coontz Went With "Fighting Bob" in the Famous 'Round-the-World Tour in 1908 As Lieutenant-Commander.

Seventeen years ago Lieutenant-Commander Robert E. Coontz arrived in San Francisco bay aboard the battleship Nebraska to start, under command of Admiral Evans, the American navy's famous "round-the-world tour."

Admiral Robert E. Coontz came into San Francisco bay Sunday, on his own flagship to start, as commander of the United States fleet, a very similar journey. Evans is dead, and the Nebraska long has been torn apart by wreckers.

San Francisco.—One hundred and thirty ships of war are at anchor in the San Francisco bay, where for ten days they will rest here. When they sail out again, augmented by late arrivals to 145 war units—nearly 45,000 officers and men—it will be straight toward the horizon with the Hawaiian islands upon the American frontier as the scene of defense against an imaginary invasion.

The eyes of the world turned this way through the distance, watching with interest the progress of the biggest fleet that in any time or place has flown the American flag on a cruise half way around the world.

The fleet is one of the most powerful ever assembled in the history of naval warfare. In number of ships it is somewhat smaller than the British grand fleet of 1917, even before American vessels joined that aggregation, but in weight of a single broadside it is not far below that force, while in range and steaming ability it is declared not far from the best in the world.

The fighting ace of the fleet is Battleship Division Five, the only 16-inch gun battleship division in the world. Three ships comprise this—the West Virginia, Maryland and Colorado. These ships are the spearhead of the fleet attack. The Tennessee, mounting twelve 14-inch guns, is attached to this division.

Division four of the battle fleet comprises four ships mounting twelve 14-inch guns each. These are the California, Idaho, Mississippi and New Mexico. They are approximately 600 feet long, 97 feet wide and draw about 30 feet of water, with slight variations for the individual ships.

Division three carries a little less metal. The ships in it are the Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Nevada, and Arizona. The Pennsylvania and Arizona mount twelve 14-inch guns each and are about the size of the California. The Nevada and Oklahoma mount but ten 14-inch guns each, are 25 feet shorter than the other two and have a beam two feet narrower. They displace 27,500 tons; the tonnage of the other six ships in the fleet mounting 14-inch guns runs upward to 33,190.

The slowest of these battleships can make 20.5 knots an hour and all but two of them can make 21 knots. The horsepower of their plants ranges upward from 27,500 to 32,000. The cruising range is 4,000 miles or more at full speed and 10,000 miles or more at economical speeds, according to the ships.

In addition to these battleships, the old Wyoming is included in the scouting fleet, not listed in any of the battleship divisions. She mounts twelve 12-inch guns.

There are seven light cruisers in the scouting fleet—the Richmond, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Trenton in division two and the Marblehead, Detroit and Raleigh in division three. There also is another light cruiser, the Omaha, as flagship of the battle fleet's destroyer squadron, and a ninth, the Concord, as flagship of the scouting fleet destroyers.

These are all of the same type—lean, racy craft of almost destroyer slowness and greater speed than any but the late classes of destroyers. They are 550 feet long, 55 feet beam and draw a little more than 14 feet. Their design called for 90,000 horsepower and they can develop 33.5 knots an hour or better. The Omaha has done 40.

They carry twelve 6-inch guns and ten torpedo tubes each.

The scouting fleet has two divisions of mine vessels and the battle fleet one. The scouting fleet has three divisions of submarines and the battle fleet two.

EASTER DAY

Peace, down pathways newly green Slowly comes, a Spring-crowned queen:
Hope supernal, ever young,
Strikes her harp with silver strung:
Love, a lily on her breast,
Sings of faith made manifest.

From all graves in hearts, today
May the stones be rolled away,
In each tomb an angel stand
With an upward pointing hand
And all sepulchres be made Shrines, in Easter joy arrayed.

Eight teachers will probably be released at the end of the term. Approximately 160 pupils will be taken from the Fullerton Union high school and will be taken care of in a separate institution established by the two communities.

The battle fleet has thirty-three destroyers and the scouting fleet twenty-five.

Both fleets have tankers, supply ships and the like, while the battle fleet also has a fleet train force which includes the hospital ship Relief, the repair ship Medusa and a number of mine-sweepers, auxiliaries, and fuel supply boats. In addition, there are a number of tenders in both fleets for the submarine contingents, the aircraft forces—that of the scouting fleet having already gone to Honolulu—and the mine layers.

PATRONS PROMISED IDEAL HOME COOKING

Campbell is to be treated to a new and up-to-the-minute "home cooking" short-order dinner and delicatessen dispensary.

Mrs. E. F. Yount who has had considerable experience in the culinary art has leased the Ainsley restaurant and with her son-in-law, Mr. T. W. McCabe, will conduct the business, Mrs. McCabe, assisting.

The new fixtures were recently installed by Mr. E. G. Ainsley, making for up-to-date, efficient and most sanitary service. Enamelled counter stools are placed along the short order counter and the service tables are placed in cozy booths.

All cooking will be done by gas arranged beneath a large ventilator. The delicatessen counter is placed across the rear of the room with a very attractive display case.

Such a service as is promised by the management should prove a boon to those who wish to dine out occasionally or take their friends to lunch and it will doubtless become a popular place.

BOOKS FOR JACK

Miss Elizabeth Kennedy, Campbell Librarian, has asked for contributions of books and well preserved magazines to be sent to San Francisco for the "Sailors' Library." The books should be in serviceable condition and both interesting and morally respectable.

Last year this community contributed quite generously and both books and magazines were highly appreciated. Let us better our former gifts for this is certainly a good place to put ones story books that have had a family reading.

CAMP FIRE CONVENTION

A contingent of local Camp Fire Girls, with their guardian, Miss Elizabeth Turner, assisted by Mrs. W. H. Stray and Mrs. L. T. Lenox, left Wednesday morning to attend a three day session of the Pacific Coast Conference of Camp Fire at Oakland. Mrs. Louis Shelley, one of the county officers, preceded the group to assist in arrangements.

The girls who have gone from the two Campbell groups are Miriam Blaine, Wilhelmina Le Grand, Lois and Clara Rice, Marjorie Collis, Helen Stray, Mary Maxon, Virginia and Helen Lenox and Helen Alison.

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Eckles are extended the sympathy of the community in the sorrow over the death of the latter's sister, Mrs. Minta Bassett, which occurred in San Francisco Friday. Mrs. Bassett had undergone an operation earlier in the week but had rallied from the anesthetic and was apparently on the road to recovery, so that her very sudden demise was a great shock to her relatives and friends.

LAW ENFORCEMENT UPHELD BY AUTHORITY

The committee who had charge of the program for the Country Woman's Club Monday, Messdames R. W. Kennedy, G. W. Page, F. M. Richter and L. S. Miller, had secured Mrs. Lucy McClintic, of the Law and Order League, to speak to the club on the various phases of the day's topic, "Law Enforcement."

Under this head she considered several topics, Crime, Court Action, Probation, and the enforcement of prohibition and traffic laws.

No one in the county is better prepared to treat of this subject than is Mrs. McClintic, who devotes a great proportion of her time in carrying into effect our laws and in attendance upon courts where these cases are brought for action.

She enumerated the classes of crimes which are most prevalent and which largely constitute the present crime wave of which we read and hear so much.

They are check-passing burglaries, violations of traffic and prohibition laws and murders.

There has been a stupendous increase in the first of these crimes recently. A report from the secretary of the San Jose Merchants' Association places these losses from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars a year from bad checks.

Traffic violations are probably the most numerous and altho numbers of these are unintentional, a very large per cent break the laws willfully and do not consider that they have placed themselves in the criminal class thereby. But a law breaker is a malefactor nevertheless.

The most outstanding law violations with the fewest convictions are the murders. The statistics show that in the United States, 135,000 murderers are at large, with only 82,000 policemen to guard us. Out of all the murders committed there are but 3 per cent of the perpetrators of those crimes convicted. "There is nothing like this in any other civilized country operating under law enforcement."

One item of interest was given with reference to England. There the most habitual violators are women, altho not the most numerous.

The speaker gave some very enlightening information relative to the conditions existing in our own county and what has been accomplished in the closing of lotteries, suppression of slot machines and punch boards, enforcement of the Wright act and the Volstead law, and the improved conditions in San Jose following the last city election.

A brief survey was made of the causes of present conditions and their remedy. There is a great proneness to lay the blame on prohibition. It is true that disrespect of the 18th amendment has had a tendency to cause disrespect of other laws, but a far greater source of crime has been the spread of the narcotic evil. One prominent New York official states from a wide experience that control of this evil means relief of crime.

The district attorney of Alameda County says that the cause for non-enforcement of the law is ourselves, not prohibition or poor officials. The people have just as good officers and conditions as they demand and help bring about. And we have a striking example in our neighboring city of improved conditions when the citizens became aroused and elected men pledged to "clean up" the city. "The remedy is in ourselves!"

The committees for the P. T. A. card party are planning a very enjoyable affair for Friday evening, April 17. Whist and 500 will be played and a short program furnished, the receipts to be added to the association treasury. Refreshments will be served, Mrs. J. A. Conner has charge of the games, Mrs. W. I. Merrill, the program and Mrs. C. H. Davidson, the refreshments.

SANTA CLARA HOST TO CO. CONSOLIDATED

Unity, the life-blood of Santa Clara County Consolidated, was again the keynote of the session held at Santa Clara Tuesday. This time the organization was behind the project of publicity for Santa Clara valley and voted for it as one man.

County Dads Roll, Cooley, Ayer and Hubbard were invited to the meeting that they might be consulted on the advertising of the county and make suggestions which could be applied. The matter was thoroughly discussed and carried unanimously.

The luncheon was served outdoors beneath the trellis on the Santa Clara University campus. Rev. Father Z. J. Maher, president of the university, gave the welcoming address responded to by President Wendell C. Thomas of the Consolidated. Following the luncheon the party was conducted to the observatory where all met Father Ricard, "Padre of Rains", who gave an interesting talk on his work. A campaign is now on to raise $150,000 to build a memorial observatory to honor Father Ricard and carry on his splendid scientific work.

Secretary G. E. Farley, Ralston Alison and Harry C. Smith represented Campbell, Mr. Farley inviting the Consolidated to meet here in June.

The May meeting will be held at Morgan Hill.

MOORE-GREENE

The home of W. P. Greene on Keller Avenue in San Jose was the scene of a quiet wedding on Tuesday afternoon when, in the presence of a few relatives and friends, Margaret E. Moore became the wife of Earnest S. Greene.

The ceremony began promptly at two o'clock when Miss Isabelle Smith, cousin of the groom, sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied by Miss Lela Garver. Then to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bride entered upon the arm of her uncle who, at the altar, gave her to the groom. They were joined in marriage by the Reverend William E. Eckles.

The bride was lovely and lovable in a dress of white crepe de chine and shadow lace with bridal veil and wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

After the ceremony light refreshments were served and the happy couple departed for a few days' honeymoon in the mountains. They will be at home with the parents of the groom in Campbell after April 12.

Mrs. Green is a popular member of the Senior class at Campbell High School and expects to finish her high school course and be graduated in June.

Mr. Greene is a rising young educator who expects to begin his third year in college next fall.

C OF C ENDORSES STATE GAS TAX BILL

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting that body went on record as favoring the state gasoline tax bill with the budget of highway commission expenditures.

The date of the regular session of the Chamber has been changed to the second Monday of each month. After a short discussion it was voted to authorize the road committee to confer with Dad Sturtevant concerning the marking of the business blocks of Campbell avenue for the parking of autos to avoid possible congestion of traffic.

The session was shortened to permit of the members' attendance at the grammar school entertainment.

Miss Hazel Greene is home from Sonora for the week's vacation.

THE OBSERVANCE OF EASTER

"Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth." (Cor., V. 2.)

Although it is said there is no direct reference to the Easter festival in the New Testament, the above quoted passage is by many supposed to refer to an apostolic observance of Easter.

As commemorating the resurrection of Christ, Easter has always been regarded as the chief festival of the Christian year. In the early part of the Christian era there was much disagreement as to the day, varying according to different reckonings and the differences of opinion among ecclesiastical writers. It was not until Constantine summoned the council of Nicaea in the year 325, that the decision became unanimous that Easter should be kept on Sunday and the same Sunday throughout the world.

Easter has tended toward Christian unity among religious denominations, and towards Christian duty among individuals. As an observance of the divine fact of the Resurrection, it happily comes to us in the earthly sense of Springtime when all life seeks newness and resurrection. What man, woman or child can not be benefited by engaging in or attending the special service programs of the Eastertide! Poular custom (though harmless) may have somewhat distracted from the original purposes of Easter observance, but the holy day still remains as a time for solemn recognition of the divine, with the "unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

THOMAS JEFFERSON

While Thomas Jefferson's birthday (April 13) is not generally held as a legal or public holiday except in the state of Alabama, it is well to remember the great part Jefferson had in bringing about the birth of our nation. Quoting from an authentic historian, we find a paragraph which reads with more romance than the greatest modern thriller:

"In June, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia offered this resolution in Congress. 'Resolved that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States.' A committee of five was chosen to draw up a declaration embodying this resolution. Thomas Jefferson did the work. John Hancock, then President of the Congress on July 4, signed the Declaration of American Independence in that bold, decided hand which 'the king of England could read without spectacles.' Then the patriots of Philadelphia rang the 'Liberty Bell' in the Old State House till it nearly cracked with its joyous peal. In New York City the people pulled down a gilded lead statue of the king and melted it up into bullets.

"Later, the representatives of the colonies added their names to the Declaration. That completed the work; the thirteen British colonies had ceased to exist; in their place stood a new nation—the United States of America,—your country and mine!"

WILL THEY RESENT IT?

A woman in New York "who claims to know" proposes to broadcast suggestions to the housewives of America on how to keep their homes attractive and tidy. Just what attitude the women-folk will take toward this remains to be seen; but we suspect that they will not permit one female of the species to tell all the others how and when to mop the kitchen floor or to dust off the piano.

But it's no disgrace not to equal the factory sort. Our lady hasn't the factory equipment.

Then, too, baking just a few doesn't pay. And preparing more than the family eats with enthusiasm is wasteful. There are many logical reasons for investing in several cans of the 10c, 15c or 25c sizes of Heinz Beans. Ingram's Chili Con Carne is best when served in this way: Add equal parts water. COMMITTEES SELECTED FOR MAY FESTIVAL

A great deal of interest is being manifested in the May Festival which is being arranged by the Country Woman's Club for May first and second.

There will be the booths that one instinctively connects with festivals where balloons, candy, utility aprons, home-cooked food, and other good things will be dispensed. For entertainment there will be fortune telling, a tea garden, a humorous lecture and other pleasant diversions.

The various committees have been appointed and are being published so that if any one else wishes to help in any way they may know to whom they should offer their services, or contributions. There are a number already serving who are not members of the club, but are doing it in order to help. The members are very desirous of reducing the debt as fast as possible in order to cut down the interest.

The annual meeting of District No. 20, I. O. O. F. will be held in the San Jose high school auditorium on Saturday evening, April 25. The first degree team from the Santa Rosa lodge will confer the work on a large class of candidates from various lodges in this section. The team from Santa Rosa have a state wide reputation for the most excellent manner in which they portray the drama in seven tableaux. A special stage is required as they use a large quantity of elaborate scenery. The committee in charge are very fortunate in securing such an attractive feature and all members of the order are urged to attend.

Biographer Points Out Milton's Poetic Weakness

Milton's English poems, though making no promises of "Paradise Lost," have this evidence of genius, that they have a cast original and unborrowed. But their peculiarity is not excellence; if they differ from the verse of others they differ for the worse; for they are too often distinguished by repulsive harshness; the combinations of words are new, but they are not pleasing; the rhymes and epithets seem to be laboriously sought and violently applied.

That in the early part of his life he wrote with much care appears from his manuscripts, happily preserved at Cambridge, in which many of his smaller works are found as they were first written, with the subsequent corrections. Such relics show how excellence is acquired; what we hope ever to do with ease we may learn first to do with diligence.

Those who admire the beauties of this great poet sometimes force their own judgment into false approbation of his little pieces and prevail upon themselves to think that admirable which is only singular. All that short compositions can commonly attain is neatness and elegance. Milton never learned the art of doing little things with grace; he overlooked the milder excellence of suavity and softness; he was a lion that had no skill in handling the kid.—From Johnson's "Life of Milton."

Bear Hunt Trails Back for Millions of Years

A bear hunt is going on in the office of Dr. J. W. Gidley, of the United States National museum at Washington. Doctor Gidley has already trailed bears millions of years further back into the past than has ever been done before and discovered that their ancestors did not live the dog's life that paleontologists have heretofore thought.

The fossil teeth of the extinct bear, ursus primevus, were previously believed to represent the dental equipment of the ancestors of all modern bears. These teeth were also supposed to have characteristics which indicated that ursus primevus descended from dogs. In his examination of the teeth, however, Doctor Gidley discovered that, instead of being the progenitor of all modern bears, this ruin of 2,000,000 years or more ago was merely the forefather of one species of present-day bears, the East Indian sun bear.
